A prominent member of the American party from New York city, furnishes us the following information: The following resolutions passed the Fillmore and Donelson Executive State Committee to-day, by a majority of 20 in a Committee of 22.

Resolved, That we deem it inexpedient to make any alternation in the Fillmore and Donelson ticket, of this State, and we are firmly convinced that any interference with it would be the means of giving the State to Mr. Buchanan instead of defeating him.

Resolved, That we decline to accept either of the propositions of the North American State Central Committee, satisfied that the electoral ticket already in the field is the only one on which all opposed to Mr. Buchanan can successful unite and pledge it uncompromising opposition, and to the defeat under any circumstances of

The difference between Kansas under Shannon and Kansas under Geary, appears to be this: Under Shannon, the motto and practice of the Border Ruffian invaders was, Steal yourself a horse, or for that matter a cow or an ox, anything a Border Ruffian wants which a Free State man happens to have; though, as the Border Ruffians were a migratory race, who, as soon as they had robbed and eaten out one neighborhood, removed to another, it was horses that they prised most, and were most certain to steal. Take it, and if the owner objects shoot him. Such was the motto and practice under Shannon. Under Geary, the motto and practice of the same class is, Swear yourselves a horse. Any Border Ruffian, it seems, who happens to see a horse or anything else that he wants in possession of a Free State man, has onis a rumor that Mr. Watson is not returned, ly to depose that it was once his, and has been at some indefinite place and time taken from him by Free State men, and Marshal Donaldson at once delivers over the wished-for article to the moving Ruffians, without deigning to hear a single word by way of rebutter from the Free State possessor, or to listen to any evidence he may produce that the horse or other article is his. Where Gov. Geary and Marshal Donaldson get their law for this summary method of superseding the ordinary courts we are not informed—probably from the same source whence Marshal Donaldson derived his authority for delivering over his posse to Sheriff Jones for the purpose of sacking Lawrence.

tion which of late has a signally homolosis in the red hany achievement of Brooks."

This is emphatically a work of our age. It is history in the guise of fiction, history whose accuracy is attested by public records and State documents. Each character is a living reality. It is a book eminently suggestive of much needed moral reforms. It is not sectional. It hits North and South. It shows the social evils generated by Siavery in the one, and by neglected poverty in the other, it pictures the follies and vices of worn-out Southern chivalry; the crimes of the forsaken wretches in the Five Proints; and the sordid sin which luxurates in our palaces it portrays how those whom the world regards as beacons illuminating the path of virtue, grown in sensuality-sought and loved for its own sake; while the neglected of the world, in their depths of degradation, yet emit some rays—feeble though they be—of a soul within. In fine, it teaches the practical lesson—that it would become the great to learn how a true use of their wealth and influence may benefit poor fallen humanity.
